

About Me

I don't want this to be boring but I'll include a little bit about me even though I'd like to get to know more about you!

I have been in the mortgage industry for 17 years where I have managed operations teams on the frontlines and at the executive levels. I'm more educated than I look. I graduated with my bachelor's degree from California State University of Northridge and then earned my MBA from Pepperdine's Graziadio Business School in Malibu, CA.

My passion is helping people learn about the opportunities of homeownership and improving their financial situation. Whether you're a first time homebuyer or a long time homeowner, I can assist with answering questions, connecting you to someone that can help with an issue, and finance your next home loan. I refer my clients to anyone that can improve their overall financial situation.

Call me today to find out ways I can help educate, entertain, and empower you.
